In a recent interview with NBC, former President Donald Trump reaffirmed his commitment to reforms in U.S. immigration policy, emphasizing deportation and changes to legal immigration pathways. These proposals have sparked discussions about their potential impact on families, professionals, and immigrants seeking a stable future in the United States.

At Lunel Law, we understand the concerns raised by such discussions and are here to guide families and individuals through these uncertainties with clarity and expertise. Here's what you need to know about the proposed reforms and how to prepare.

Understanding the Proposed Immigration Reforms

1. Deportation Initiatives
   Trump's commitment to stricter deportation policies could mean increased enforcement actions. For individuals and families without clear legal status, this underscores the importance of addressing any unresolved immigration issues proactively.
2. Reforming Legal Immigration
   The proposed changes to legal immigration pathways, including employment-based and family-based visas, aim to prioritize merit-based systems. While specifics remain unclear, these reforms could alter eligibility criteria, wait times, and documentation requirements.
3. Implications for Asylum Seekers

Tougher regulations on asylum applications are another focus of these proposals. This could lead to increased scrutiny for asylum seekers, making thorough documentation and expert legal representation more critical than ever.

How Lunel Law Can Help

As immigration policies evolve, Lunel Law remains committed to protecting your rights and ensuring a smooth process for your immigration journey. Our expertise spans a range of immigration services, including:

- Family-Based Immigration: Assisting families in reuniting through green card applications and sponsorships for spouses, children, and parents.
- Employment-Based Immigration: Guiding professionals in navigating U.S. work visa systems and self-sponsorship pathways like the National Interest Waiver (NIW).
- Asylum Applications: Representing individuals seeking protection from persecution in their home countries.
- Deportation Defense: Offering robust representation to individuals facing removal proceedings, ensuring their rights are upheld.

Steps to Take Now

1. Stay Informed
   Stay current with policy changes and understand how they might affect your immigration status or eligibility for specific pathways.
2. Review Your Status
   Ensure your documentation is current and that you meet all requirements for your immigration category.
3. Seek Expert Guidance
   Partnering with an experienced immigration attorney can make all the difference in navigating complex reforms. At Lunel Law, we provide personalized legal strategies to help you confidently adapt to policy changes.

Conclusion

Immigration policies constantly evolve, but your goals don't have to be put on hold. Whether you're reuniting with family, pursuing professional opportunities, or seeking asylum, Lunel Law is here to help you navigate the changing landscape with expertise and care.

Ready to secure your future in the U.S.? Contact Lunel Law today for a consultation and take the first step toward achieving your immigration goals.

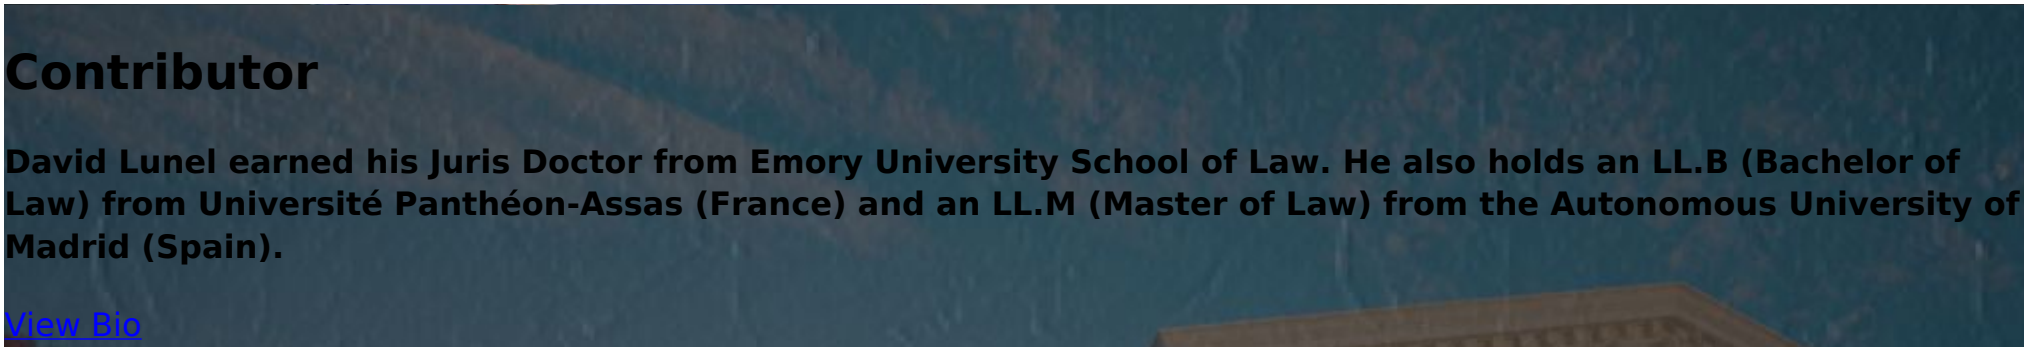

Contributor

Meet David Lunel

David Lunel earned his Juris Doctor from Emory University School of Law. He also holds an LL.B (Bachelor of Law) from Université Panthéon-Assas (France) and an LL.M (Master of Law) from the Autonomous University of Madrid (Spain).

View Bio

Contributors

David Lunel

David Lunel, Esq. is an attorney in the United States where he is a member of the State Bar of Georgia. He advises clients on current immigration legislation, handles nonimmigrant and immigrant visa applications, and regularly attends interviews at U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services. David Lunel also represents immigrants before […]

View Bio
View All Attorneys

Contributor

David Lunel

Principal Member

David Lunel earned his Juris Doctor from Emory University School of Law. He also holds an LL.B (Bachelor of Law) from Université Panthéon-Assas (France) and an LL.M (Master of Law) from the Autonomous University of Madrid (Spain).

View Full Bio Download vCard